Mr. Olney, for his own purposes, has de- Doctrine. fined the Administration's Mexican policy as one of non-intervention (in plain defiance of the Administration's unbroken recand of intervention in Mexico from March, 4913, to October, 1916). The ex-Secretary thus states what he considers the President's Mexican and Pan-American policy to have been:

"They [the principles and ideals of our constitutional government] require us to admit that Mexico is entitled to govern herself; that her pecple, like the other peoples of South and Central America, are entitled to go through all the processes and experiences necessary for their education and intelligent participation in free government; while the proper rôle of the United States is to abstain from interference itself and to permit no interference from any other quarter, and to secure the solidarity of the two Americas by securing for our purposes and policies the approbation and support of the Latin-American coun-

Let us analyze this: Every man or woman was that money was too dear and products. A six-cent loaf is no harder to earn now than a three-cent loaf was in 1896. Mr. Bryan's contention in 1896 was that money was too dear and products. Let us analyze this: Every man or woman was that money was too dear and products who labors with hand or brain produces too cheap. To have good times we must have Sir: In your interesting editorial on "War something that has a value to mankind, the cheap money, which would make prices high." Yet Mr. Olney's own consistency is not the real issue in question. He may have become a convert to the new gospel of Pan-Americanism which he asserts is derived from.
